

Good morning! Please come in and pick up a copy of "Jabberwocky" and a list of transition words from the front table. Complete your DLP first, and then read "Jabberwocky" and complete the activity listed at the top.

In his book "Things Fall Apart," Chinua Achebe relates the story of a beautiful, fascinating African culture that has all but disappeared.

disappeared

From about 620-560 B.C.E., an ancient Greek named Aesop wrote stories that are fun to read. And contain advice like, "do not trust flatterers" and "Better beans and bacon in peace than cakes and ale in fear."