

Please come in and complete your DLP for today. While you are working on it, please take out your free-write about a memorable moment in your life, so I can come around and check it while you are working on this or on your quiz.

The Taenaris macrops butterfly, which feeds on ripe bananas, has eyespots on its wings that flash like the eyes of a predator.

its

predator