

Reflexive Pronouns

Reflexive pronouns are the -self forms of pronouns:

Myself	Yourself	Himself	Herself
Itself	Ourselves	Yourselves	Themselves

Because English also has the personal pronouns his and their, some speakers extend the above system and use hisself and theirselves. Although it is easy to see why people do this, these forms are considered non-standard, and should not be used.

INCORRECT

He always bragged about hisself.
They gave the money to theirselves.

CORRECT

He always bragged about himself.
They gave the money to themselves.

*NOTE: When speakers are trying to sound formal or respectful, they will sometimes use one of the reflexive pronouns when a plain pronoun should be used instead.

INCORRECT

Jack will be traveling with Jenny and myself.
Dana loves being with Grandpa and yourself.

CORRECT

Jack will be traveling with Jenny and me.
Dana loves being with Grandpa and you.

Reflexive Pronouns as Intensifiers - Intensive Pronouns

A reflexive pronoun may be used immediately after another pronoun to emphasize or intensify the first pronoun, as long as they both refer to the same person(s). For example:

I myself cooked this gourmet dinner.
We ourselves must make these changes rather than depend on others.

Practice. Complete the following sentences with a correct reflexive pronoun. Be sure to match gender and number.

Example: I myself saw the madman's handiwork.

- The policeman shot _____ accidentally.
- I _____ should take responsibility.
- They don't trust _____ to do the job right.
- He gave _____ a haircut.
- They promised to take the quiz _____.
- I can see _____ in the mirror.
- She decided to treat _____ to an ice cream sundae.
- Jane is just a baby; she is too small to eat by _____.
- The children can decorate the Christmas tree by _____.
- Jim and I can paint the car all by _____.
- Hello, Martin and Rebecca! Please make _____ at home!
- If you can't do this exercise by _____, please ask the teacher for help.
